Wireless in the Library

Effective January 31, 2009, two wireless networks will be available at Duke Medicine. For assistance, please contact the DHTS Help Desk at (919) 684-2243 or <https://www.dunk.duke.edu/secure/submit/>.

Duke Medicine staff and students

Use the secure, encrypted diamonds network to connect wirelessly to Duke Medicine resources and the Internet. Each user must have a Duke Medicine Active Directory login and password in order to use the diamonds network.

- This Windows Active Directory ID and password is the one you usually use to login to your regular computer workstation or laptop. If you are not sure what this is, call the DHTS Help Desk at (919) 684-2243 or talk to the Systems Administrator in your department.
- Connection information for Windows XP and Vista, Mac OSX 10.4 and 10.5, and an OS-neutral document are available on the Duke Medicine Intranet at <http://tinyurl.com/5qf2he>.

Patients and others who are not affiliated with Duke Medicine

All others are welcome to use the DHTS unencrypted guest network to access the Internet.

- See “How Do I Connect as a Guest?” for instructions.
